HUGHES NOMINATION CONFIRMED, VOTE 52-26

OPPONENTS TO CARRY ISSUE TO NEXT ELECTION

EXPECT TO FEATURE IT AT THE COMING CONGRESSIONAL ELECTIONS

OPPOSITION SOUGHT TO POST-
PONE DEFEAT BY MOTION
TO RECESS, LOSING 45-35
By PAUL R. MALLON

Washington, Feb. 14.—While Charles Evans Hughes prepared to assume the chief justiceship of the supreme court February 24, his opponents who mustered 26 votes against his confirmation in the senate late yesterday, laid plans today to carry their issue into the coming congressional election.

The tariff bill to which the senate is now returned, the power control arguments and various conflicts regarding farm relief which entered into the Hughes debate were being stressed by the 15 democrats and 11 republicans who voted against him on the final roll call.

The fight against confirmation brought such unusual attention that senators were sure it will play an important part in the fall campaigns when one-third of the senate will seek re-election.

It was a futile fight from the start. Only for a time before the final vote was the issue really in doubt. The opposition sought to postpone defeat by a motion to recess until today but lost by a vote of 45 to 35. The vote made it obvious they could not win. A final vote was taken and Hughes' supporters won by a margin of 52 to 26.

What astounded senators involved, however, was that a nomination for such a high office as chief justice of a man of the legal attainments of Hughes was held up for four days by a substantial opposition which delved with undisguised criticism into the recent decisions of a majority of the court.

With the disposition of the Hughes case, the senate returned to consideration of individual amendments to the tariff with the leaders hoping to get the bill out of the senate within two weeks.

New York, Feb. 14.—Charles Evans Hughes will take his seat in the supreme court February 24.

In a statement after he had been informed of his confirmation by the senate, Hughes said:

"My appreciation of the honor of the appointment is outweighed by a deep sense of responsibility. The ideals and principles relating to public service with which I entered public life 25 years ago, and which I have tried to exemplify in public office, I hold unaltered."

Grant, Neb., Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—With but four witnesses to be called, the case of Joe Crow, 15, North Platte high school boy, charged with murder in the killing of Base Snyder and Axel Johnson, alleged liquor runners, was expected to be given to a jury late today.

Crow, who was on the stand most of yesterday, admitted he shot the men after they had intimidated him and Paul Duffy, his step-brother. "I will give you one minute to live to tell where you hid that liquor or you will never see your home or steal liquor again," the youthful defendant quoted Johnson as saying.

The shooting occurred in Sandhill valley on the night of December 29. The boys stole 25 gallons of whiskey at a turkey shoot and escaped with it to the hills.

Crow said he and Duffy remained docile until the threat. Then, he testified, he whirled and shot Johnson before the latter could fire and immediately fired upon Snyder.

After Crow's case is completed Duffy will be tried.

LITTLE FALLS NEW NATIONAL GUARD CAMP

SECRETARY OF WAR TO CON-SIDER THEM BEFORE
JUNE 30

St. Paul, Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—All specifications for Minnesota's new national guard camp near Little Falls will be completed by March 20 so the Secretary of War may consider them before June 30, Brigadier General B. A. Walsh, state adjutant, announced today.

The Minnesota camp is being moved from near Lake City, Minn., where it has been located up until this year. General Walsh said 1,000 acres of land have been purchased and a 1,500 acre tract leased for the Little Falls site.

He said the present acquired area will be sufficient for training purposes in 1930. The purchased land cost $29,000 and the probable cost of the land under lease, if it is bought, was announced as $70,000.

General Walsh said present plans call for expenditures of about $210,000 on equipment for the camp and $103,000 for railroad tracks, a bridge and a highway.

The government plans to provide rail connections by building a bridge over the Mississippi river near Topeka, approximately 7,200 feet of standard highway will be constructed to form a connecting road with trunk highway 27.

Among the features of the new plane, which was designed by Rene Couzinet, are the following:

It is of all-wood construction, will weigh 14 tons, and is equipped with three motors.

Its landing carriage may be drawn up under the body, increasing speed possibilities by 10 miles an hour.

It has 1,800 horsepower. It should make 160 miles an hour. The plane has a closer resemblance to a bird than any hitherto designed.

SOME TIME

RESIGNED FROM THE STATE SU-PREME COURT IN 1928, succeeded by HILTON

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—Former Supreme Court Justice James H. Quinn was reported dying today at his home here. The former justice, who is 72 years old, had been in ill health for some time.

James H. Quinn was born in Kilbourn City, Wis., on June 23, 1857. He came to Blue Earth county, Minnesota, when he was a lad of six. At the age of 24, he began a practice of law and was elected Faribault county attorney for five terms.

In 1897, Quinn resigned as county attorney to be appointed district judge. He held that post continuously until elected an associate justice of the supreme court in November, 1916. He was re-elected in 1922. Quinn resigned from the state supreme court in 1928, being succeeded by Clifford L. Hilton, former attorney general.

SONS OF WILD JACKASSES CLUB IS ORGANIZED

White Bear Lake, Minn., Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—Adopting a slogan of "Bray for Farm Relief," more than 200 farmers of three nearby counties today organized the first Sons of Wild Jackasses club.

The name of the organization was suggested by a reference of Senator George Moses of New Hampshire to mid-western insurgent senators. The emblem is a white badge bearing the silhouette of a vigorous kicking black donkey.

Robert Freeman, Ramsey county farm agent and founder of the club, said he expected the organization to assume national proportions.

EMBATTLED CITIZENS IN BITTER FIGHT

FIGHT SHOULDER TO SHOULDER WITH UNPAID POLICE OF CHICAGO

STAGE AN OFFENSIVE AGAINST
OUTLAWS OF BOULEVARD
AND BACK ALLEY

By RAY BLACK
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, Feb. 14.—Embattled citizens fought shoulder to shoulder with the unpaid police today against the outlaws of boulevard and back alley.

Bodies of two bandits lay on slabs in morgues and two robbers were in hospitals to mark the end of the fifth day in the city's campaign against organized crime and as tribute to the marksmanship and bravery of citizenry and police.

The 3,000th suspect had been rounded up as squad cars cruised all parts of the city, seizing every individual who appeared to have possible connection with the underworld. In the last 24 hours, 572 men were arrested. Seven carried guns and are liable to indictment by the federal grand jury.

Determination of shopkeepers and householders to aid the police and the powerful and secret committee of big business headed by Robert Isham Randolph was the latest phase of the anti-crime war.

A Jackson boulevard motorcycle sales agency was the scene of one shooting. Charles E. Sutton, proprietor, shot and killed one marauder and wounded another but could not prevent his escape.

Police Sergeant Charles Reynolds, who had three times won the Chicago Tribune award for heroic police work, shot and killed a negro bandit who had just held up a taxicab driver. The negro sought to shoot it out with the officer, but his bullets went wide.

WHITE CASE IN HANDS OF JURY BY TOMORROW

FATE OF THE CUSTOMS AGENT
CHARGED WITH MURDER
DECIDED SOON

DEFENSE EXPECTED TO MAKE
FINAL ARGUMENTS
LATE TODAY

Duluth, Minn., Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—The fate of Emmett J. White, customs agent charged with the murder of Henry Virkkula, confectioner shot to death last June near International Falls as he and his wife and two children were returning from a vacation trip, probably will be placed in the hands of the jury tomorrow.

Prosecuting attorneys said they would complete their case so the defense could be in final arguments late today and complete them tomorrow.

The defense admitted yesterday that Virkkula was killed by three bullets fired by White and moved for dismissal of the case on the plea that the evidence did not show any intent to kill. They argued that customs officers have a right to stop and search automobiles and use whatever force necessary. Judge William Cant denied the motion.

Mrs. Virkkula testified she thought her husband was trying to stop his car when one of the shotgun slugs which rattled the machine struck him in the head. The defense objected and the testimony was ordered stricken.

The 29 slugs which struck the car missed her two children Alice, 12, and Bernice, 8, because they were lying on the floor of the car asleep. Mrs. Virkkula said.

Sheriff Hugh Reidy of International Falls told the jury that all of the bullets struck the car more than 18 inches above the gasoline tank. From this evidence prosecuting attorneys argued that no attempt was made to disable the car.

Testimony brought out that the customs agents found two pints of milk after they searched the car when it plunged into the ditch as Virkkula slumped under the steering wheel.

MOTORING ESCAPADES OF PRINCE NICHOLAS

Bucharest, Rumania, Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—The motoring escapades of Prince Nicholas have come to the attention of parliament, but inquiry into them has been dismissed as "irreverent and disloyal." Prince Nicholas was charged with beating a taxi driver in 1929, and an attack on a peasant whose cart obstructed his way.

PRESIDENT HOOVER TO CUT FISHING VACATION SHORT

Long Key, Fla., Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—President Hoover has decided to cut his fishing vacation short by two days, and will arrive in Washington Monday rather than Wednesday.

The president's decision, an associate said today, did not result from the pressure of public business. Mr. Hoover, it was explained, did not want to fish on Sunday. Remaining here until Monday night would have given him only one more fishing day.

He did not consider this sufficient compensation for a 24-hour wait, and thus today is likely to end his recreation with the rod and reel for the present. The waters off Sombrero Light House, near Sombrero Key, were selected for the Hoover's fishing today.

RENEWED RIOTS IN PITTSBURGH TAXICAB STRIKE

BITTERLY FOUGHT STRIKE HAS
NOW ENTERED ITS 34TH
DAY

MOB STONES AND CLUBS DRIVE
ERS AND GUARDS, BURNS
ONE CAB

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—Renewed rioting was feared today as a bitterly fought strike of taxicab drivers entered its 34th day.

Cabs were withdrawn from the streets after a day and night of strife which ended only when police hurled tear gas bombs into a mob of a thousand strikers. The mob had stoned and clubbed drivers and their guards and burned one cab.

Police said the official casualty list in the strike was 86. One victim, Charles Shindman, a passenger, was blinded by a missile.

The disturbances centered in the East Liberty business section, where police battled wild crowds for three hours. Seven riot calls sent every police reserve in the city to the section. Several police were slightly wounded, and witnesses said scores of men staggered about the streets bleeding from injuries.

Many passengers in trolley cars, halted by the rioting, got off and joined in the fighting, which soon became so disorganized that missiles were heaved at friend and foe alike. At last police gathered their forces and dispersed the combatants with tear gas.

HOPE FOR CUT IN CRUISERS, SUBS WANES

THE FIGURES PRESENTED BY
FRANCE AND JAPAN ARE ANALYZED

POSSIBLE ACHIEVEMENTS OF
NAVAL CONFERENCE LIMITED
TO 3 POINTS

By WEBB MILLER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, Feb. 14.—Hope for reduction in cruiser and submarine strength of the world's five leading navies waned today upon analysis of the figures presented yesterday by France and Japan.

Henry L. Stimson, Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald, First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander, Premier Andre Briand and Foreign Minister Aristide Briand met at St. James Palace shortly after 11 A. M. to discuss the French memorandum.

The only promise of a cut in present small-ship strength is held out in the suggestion that mutual protective agreement might influence a change in France's tonnage requirements. Without such agreements, it is probable the achievements of the London naval conference will be limited to three:

First, a reduction in battleship strength. Second, a broad limitation—or rather, stabilization—of other classes of warships, with some additional building by France and Japan.

Third, the "humanization" of submarine warfare, under which undersea boats will be subject to regulations similar to those imposed on surface ships.

Briefly summed up, France's demands are these:

A French navy equal to Japan's within the next five years.

A total tonnage of approximately 724,000, including 99,000 tons in sub-

READINGS

PREDICTION FAIR TONIGHT AND SATURDAY, COLDER WEA-THER TONIGHT

St. Paul, Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—Sub-zero temperatures were reported from nearly all northwestern cities today, the weather bureau reported, the lowest temperature in the Canadian northwest was at The Pas, Man., where the mercury reached 40 degrees below zero.

Other below zero readings included Prince Albert, Sask., 36; Battleford, Sask., 34; Winnipeg, Man., 28; Devils Lake, N. D., 22; Duluth, Minn., 18; Bismarck, N. D., Moorhead, Minn., and St. Paul, all 8 below.

Rapid City, N. D., reported 18 above zero as the coldest spot of the night while Pierre, S. D., registered 4 above.

The weather bureau's prediction was fair tonight and Saturday with colder weather tonight. The bureau warned against temperatures as low as 15 below for the Twin Cities.

The state highway department reported no roads blocked at the present time and all equipment had been out some time during the past 24 hours working to prevent drifts.

Most of the 1,000 part time employees of the department worked last night and today to keep the loose snow from closing the highways. High winds in the southwest section of Minnesota would cause blocked highways, officials reported.

The highway department warned long distance motorists to prepare for weather changes and possible delays. St. Cloud, Minn., Feb. 14.—The one-day old cold wave and snow blizzard today had claimed its first casualties.

Stephen Strack, 70, was in the St. Cloud hospital today with a fractured skull and his son, Alphonse, 22, may be disabled permanently after a collision head-on with a Minnesota highway plow seven miles south of St. Cloud.

A blinding snow storm which raged during Thursday afternoon was blamed for the accident. Two women riding in the rear seat of the aged Luxemburg farmer's car were uninjured.

Strack, father of 15 children, was not expected to recover, hospital officials said today.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—A cold wave, brewed in the ice-locked river valleys of Canada, threatened to replace the middle west's spring-like weather as the icy gales which sent the mercury down to the 30-degree below zero mark at Battleford, Sask., and The Pas, Man., zoomed southward today.

Thermometers here started to fall early in the morning and weather forecasters predicted that by Saturday 10 degrees above zero or even lower might be reached. Little snow was predicted.

The blizzard brought temperatures of between 30 and 20 degrees below zero in many parts of Canada.

CARDINAL GASPARRI IN LITERARY LABORS

Vatican City, Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—Cardinal Gasparri, retired secretary of state for the Holy See, will devote the early months of his freedom to completing his work on a "single text universal catechism," to which he already has devoted some time.

Cardinal Gasparri's work on the new text, done during his spare time, has been approved by the pope and many cardinals, bishops and high theologians.

marines, 209,000 in capital ships, 142,000 tons in cruisers mounting heavier than 6-inch guns, 32,000 in aircraft carriers, and the remainder in light cruisers and smaller vessels.

An understanding that capital ships would be limited to between 20,000 and 25,000 tons each, instead of the 35,000 allowed by the Washington treaty of 1922.

France expressed willingness to consider some form of mutual guarantee of security which would make "absolute" naval requirements merely "relative" ones.

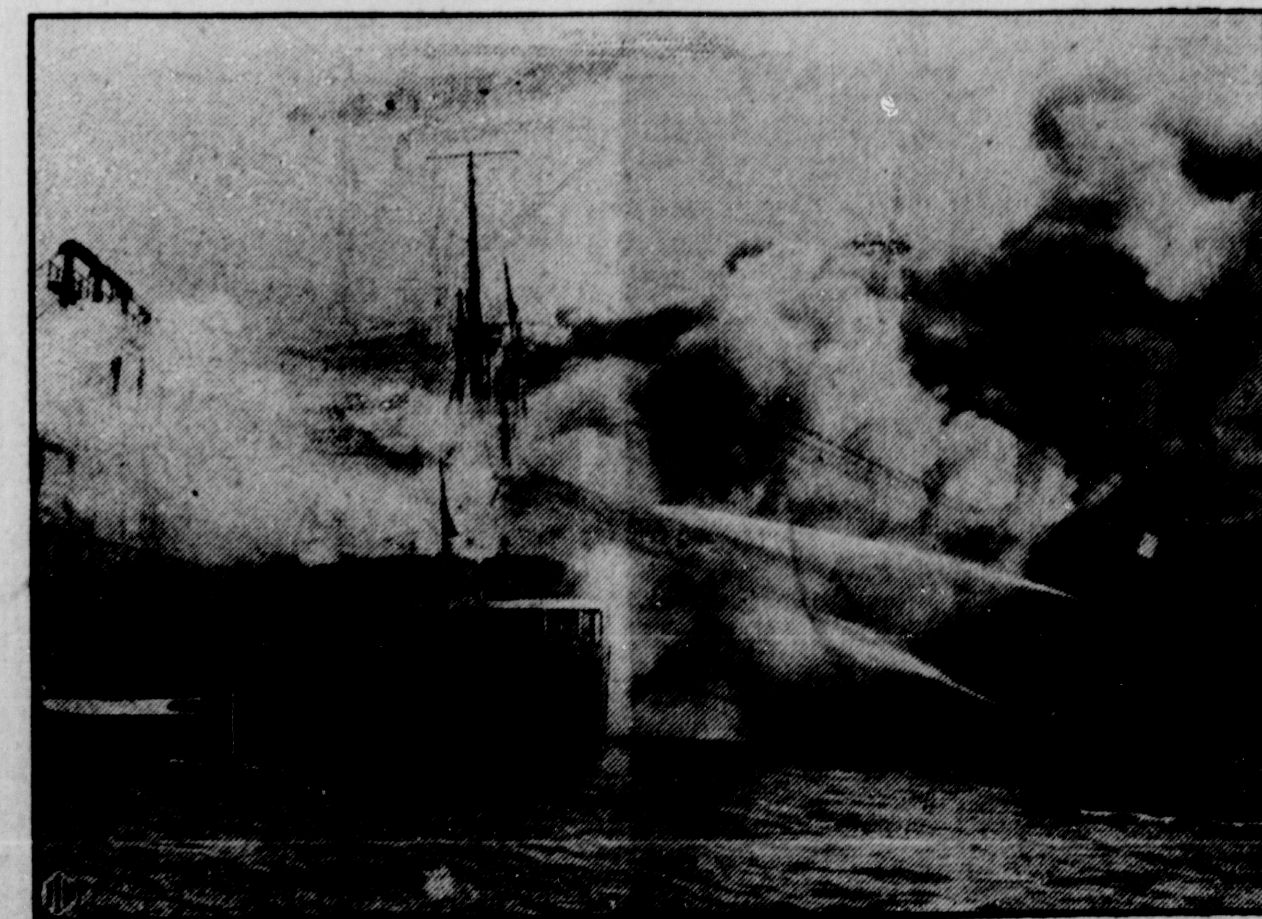

France reserved the right to construct 70,000 tons in new types of battleships, based on modern developments.

Japan, in her memorandum on naval requirements, was equally insistent on retaining her submarine strength of 78,000 tons.

The delegation joined with France and Great Britain in advocating reduction of battleship size, as well as a curtailment of gun power, by reducing calibers from 16 to 14 inches. They proposed a battleship holiday until 1936.

If such a holiday meets universal favor, France intimated that she would be willing to cut her estimates on required battleship strength.

German Liner Burns, Sinks at Pier

The palatial $6,000,000 liner Muenchen, of the North German Lloyd Line, with half a million dollar cargo aboard, went up in a towering pillar of flame and smoke—a total loss—in the most spectacular catastrophe seen in New York Harbor in many years. This remarkable picture shows a general view of the firecraft at work trying to save the doomed liner, with dense clouds of smoke which enveloped the entire waterfront.

Bodies of two bandits lay on slabs in morgues and two robbers were in hospitals to mark the end of the fifth day in the city's campaign against organized crime and as tribute to the marksmanship and bravery of citizenry and police.

The 3,000th suspect had been rounded up as squad cars cruised all parts of the city, seizing every individual who appeared to have possible connection with the underworld. In the last 24 hours, 572 men were arrested. Seven carried guns and are liable to indictment by the federal grand jury.

Determination of shopkeepers and householders to aid the police and the powerful and secret committee of big business headed by Robert Isham Randolph was the latest phase of the anti-crime war.

A Jackson boulevard motorcycle sales agency was the scene of one shooting. Charles E. Sutton, proprietor, shot and killed one marauder and wounded another but could not prevent his escape.

Police Sergeant Charles Reynolds, who had three times won the Chicago Tribune award for heroic police work, shot and killed a negro bandit who had just held up a taxicab driver. The negro sought to shoot it out with the officer, but his bullets went wide.

WHITE CASE IN HANDS OF JURY BY TOMORROW

FATE OF THE CUSTOMS AGENT
CHARGED WITH MURDER
DECIDED SOON

DEFENSE EXPECTED TO MAKE
FINAL ARGUMENTS
LATE TODAY

Duluth, Minn., Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—The fate of Emmett J. White, customs agent charged with the murder of Henry Virkkula, confectioner shot to death last June near International Falls as he and his wife and two children were returning from a vacation trip, probably will be placed in the hands of the jury tomorrow.

Prosecuting attorneys said they would complete their case so the defense could be in final arguments late today and complete them tomorrow.

The defense admitted yesterday that Virkkula was killed by three bullets fired by White and moved for dismissal of the case on the plea that the evidence did not show any intent to kill. They argued that customs officers have a right to stop and search automobiles and use whatever force necessary. Judge William Cant denied the motion.

Mrs. Virkkula testified she thought her husband was trying to stop his car when one of the shotgun slugs which riddled the machine struck him in the head. The defense objected and the testimony was ordered stricken.

The 29 slugs which struck the car missed her two children Alice, 12, and Bernice, 8, because they were lying on the floor of the car asleep, Mrs. Virkkula said.

Sheriff Hugh Reidy of International Falls told the jury that all of the bullets struck the car more than 18 inches above the gasoline tank. From this evidence prosecuting attorneys argued that no attempt was made to disable the car.

Testimony brought out that the customs agents found two pints of milk after they searched the car when it plunged into the ditch as Virkkula slumped under the steering wheel.

MOTORING ESCAPADES OF PRINCE NICHOLAS

Bucharest, Rumania, Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—The motoring escapades of Prince Nicholas have come to the attention of parliament, but inquiry into them has been dismissed as "irreverent and disloyal." Prince Nicholas was charged with beating a taxi driver in 1929, and an attack on a peasant whose cart obstructed his way.

PRESIDENT HOOVER TO CUT FISHING VACATION SHORT

Long Key, Fla., Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—President Hoover has decided to cut his fishing vacation short by two days, and will arrive in Washington Monday rather than Wednesday.

The president's decision, an associate said today, did not result from the pressure of public business. Mr. Hoover, it was explained, did not want to fish on Sunday. Remaining here until Monday night would have given him only one more fishing day.

He did not consider this sufficient compensation for a 24-hour wait, and thus today is likely to end his recreation with the rod and reel for the present.

The waters of Sombrero Light House, near Sombrero Key, were selected for the Hoover's fishing today.

RENEWED RIOTS IN PITTSBURGH TAXICAB STRIKE

BITTERLY FOUGHT STRIKE HAS
NOW ENTERED ITS 34TH
DAY

MOB STONES AND CLUBS DRIVE
ERS AND GUARDS, BURNS
ONE CAB

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—Renewed rioting was feared today as a bitterly-fought strike of taxicab drivers entered its 34th day.

Cabs were withdrawn from the streets after a day and night of strife which ended only when police hurled tear gas bombs into a mob of a thousand strikers. The mob had stoned and clubbed drivers and their guards and burned one cab.

Police said the official casualty list in the strike was 86. One victim, Charles Shindman, a passenger, was blinded by a missile.

The disturbances centered in the East Liberty business section, where police battled wild crowds for three hours. Seven riot calls sent every police reserve in the city to the section.

Several police were slightly wounded, and witnesses said scores of men staggered about the streets bleeding from injuries.

Many passengers in trolley cars, halted by the rioting, got off and joined in the fighting, which soon became so disorganized that missiles were heaved at friend and foe alike. At last police gathered their forces and dispersed the combatants with tear gas.

HOPE FOR CUT IN CRUISERS, SUBS WANES

THE FIGURES PRESENTED BY
FRANCE AND JAPAN ARE ANALYZED

NAVAL CONFERENCE LIMITED
TO 3 POINTS

By WEBB MILLER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, Feb. 14.—Hope for reduction in cruiser and submarine strength of the world's five leading navies waned today upon analysis of the figures presented yesterday by France and Japan.

Henry L. Stimson, Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald, First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander, Premier Andre Briand and Foreign Minister Aristide Briand met at St. James Palace shortly after 11 A. M. to discuss the French memorandum.

The only promise of a cut in present small-ship strength is held out in the suggestion that mutual protective agreement might influence a change in France's tonnage requirements. Without such agreements, it is probable the achievements of the London naval conference will be limited to three:

First, a reduction in battleship strength.

Second, a broad limitation—or rather stabilization—of other classes of warships, with some additional building by France and Japan.

Third, the "humanization" of submarine warfare, under which undersea boats will be subject to regulations similar to those imposed on surface ships.

Briefly summed up, France's demands are these:

A French navy equal to Japan's within the next five years.

A total tonnage of approximately 724,000, including 99,000 tons in sub-

READINGS

PREDICTION FAIR TONIGHT AND
SATURDAY, COLDER WEATHER
TODAY

St. Paul, Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—Sub-zero temperatures were reported from nearly all northwestern cities today, the weather bureau reported, the lowest temperature in the Canadian northwest was at The Pas, Man., where the mercury reached 40 degrees below zero.

Other below zero readings included Prince Albert, Sask., 36; Battleford, Sask., 34; Winnipeg, Man., 28; Devils Lake, N. D., 22; Duluth, Minn., 18; Bismarck, N. D., Moorhead, Minn., and St. Paul, all 8 below.

Rapid City, N. D., reported 18 above zero as the coldest spot of the night while Pierre, S. D., registered 4 above. The weather bureau's prediction was fair tonight and Saturday with colder weather tonight. The bureau warned against temperatures as low as 15 below for the Twin Cities.

The state highway department reported no roads blocked at the present time and all equipment had been out some time during the past 24 hours working to prevent drifts.

Most of the 1,000 part time employees of the department worked last night and today to keep the loose snow from closing the highways. High winds in the southwest section of Minnesota would cause blocked highways, officials reported.

The highway department warned long distance motorists to prepare for weather changes and possible delays.

St. Cloud, Minn., Feb. 14.—The one-day old cold wave and snow blizzard today had claimed its first casualties. Stephen Strack, 70, was in the St. Cloud hospital today with a fractured skull and his son, Alphonse, 28, may be disabled permanently after a collision head-on with a Minnesota highway plow seven miles south of St. Cloud.

A blinding snow storm which raged during Thursday afternoon was blamed for the accident. Two women riding in the rear seat of the aged Luxemburg farmer's car were uninjured.

Strack, father of 15 children, was not expected to recover, hospital officials said today.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—A cold wave, brewed in the ice-locked river valleys of Canada, threatened to replace the middle west's spring-like weather as the icy gales which sent the mercury down to the 30-degree below zero mark at Battleford, Sask., and The Pas, Man., zoomed southward today.

Thermometers here started to fall early in the morning and weather forecasters predicted that by Saturday 10 degrees above zero or even lower might be reached. Little snow was predicted.

The blizzard brought temperatures of between 30 and 20 degrees below zero in many parts of Canada.

CARDINAL GASPARRI IN LITERARY LABORS

Vatican City, Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—Cardinal Gasparri, retired secretary of state for the Holy See, will devote the early months of his freedom to completing his work on a "single text universal catechism," to which he already has devoted some time.

Cardinal Gasparri's work on the new text, done during his spare time, has been approved by the pope and many cardinals, bishops and high theologians.

marines, 209,000 in capital ships, 142,000 tons in cruisers mounting heavier than 6-inch guns, 32,000 in aircraft carriers, and the remainder in light cruisers and smaller vessels.

An understanding that capital ships would be limited to between 20,000 and 25,000 tons each, instead of the 35,000 allowed by the Washington treaty of 1922.

France expressed willingness to consider some form of mutual guarantee of security which would make "absolute" naval requirements merely "relative" ones.

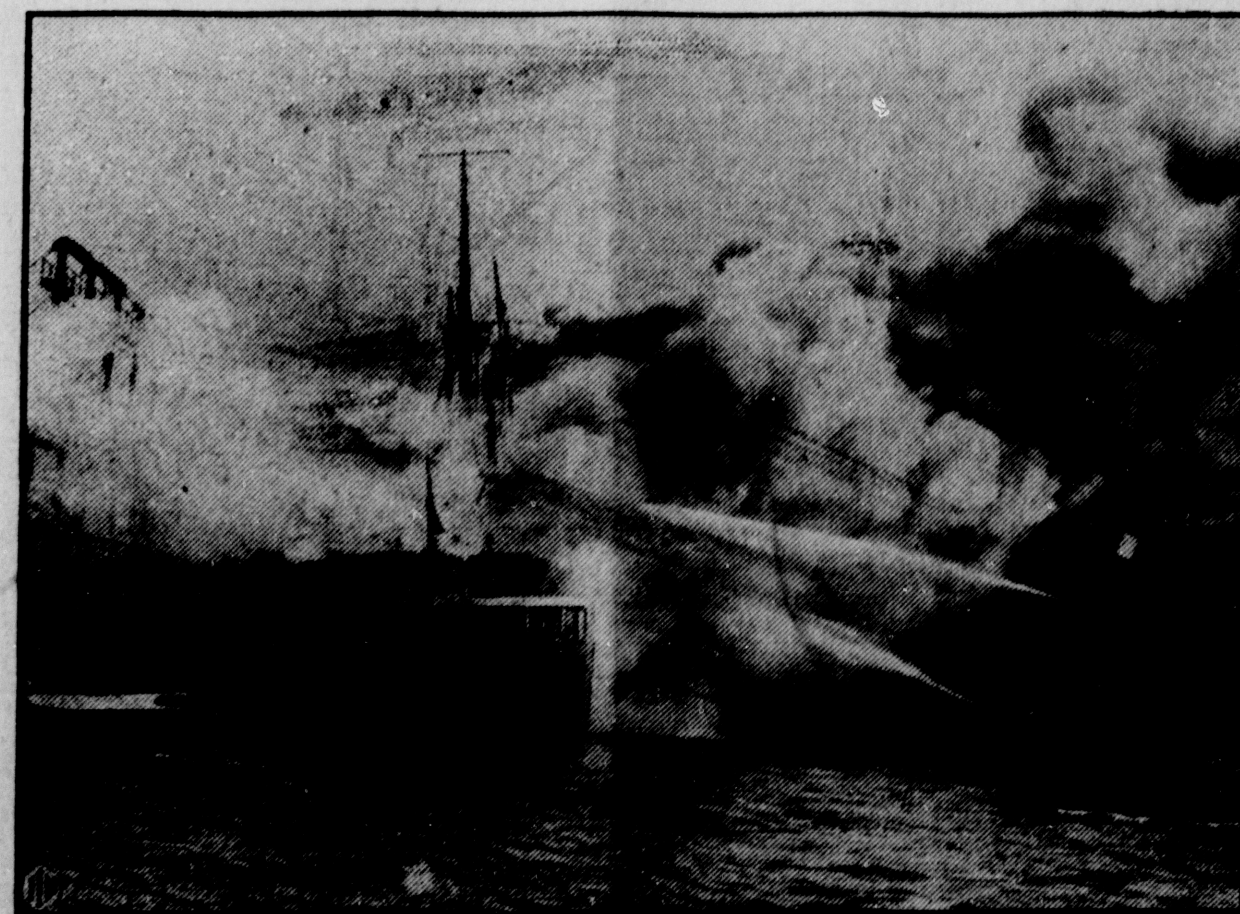

France reserved the right to construct 70,000 tons in new types of battleships, based on modern developments.

Japan, in her memorandum on naval requirements, was equally insistent on retaining her submarine strength of 78,000 tons.

The delegation joined with France and Great Britain in advocating reduction of battleship size, as well as a curtailment of gun power, by reducing calibers from 16 to 14 inches. They proposed a battleship holiday until 1936.

If such a holiday meets universal favor, France intimated that she would be willing to cut her estimates on required battleship strength.

German Liner Burns, Sinks at Pier

The palatial $6,000,000 liner Muenchen, of the North German Lloyd Line, with half a million dollar cargo aboard, went up in a towering pillar of flame and smoke—a total loss—in the most spectacular catastrophe seen in New York Harbor in many years. This remarkable picture shows a general view of the firecraft at work trying to save the doomed liner, with dense clouds of smoke which enveloped the entire waterfront.

MRS. R. T. CAMPBELL ENTERTAINS D. A. R.

Luncheon Table Decorated in Beautiful and Novel Manner

When Mrs. R. T. Campbell's guests sought their places at the beautifully appointed table where she served the D. A. R. luncheon yesterday, they found military titles had been given them on the flag-decorated place cards and plates of salad in the form of little army tents, surmounted by tiny flags, together with cleverly-chosen menu details emphasized the national holiday idea. The fine portrait which Mr. Lincoln himself once gave to his friend, James L. Camp, had been loaned by Mr. Camp's daughter, Mrs. Irma Hartley, to occupy a place of honor on the buffet, opposite the regent Mrs. Martha Ann Bronson at the head of the table.

Mrs. J. G. Heald was slated to review Steven Vincent Benet's "John Brown's Body" at this luncheon. She chose, for the brief time allotted for reviewing so large a volume, extracts from the beautiful "Invocation to the American Muse," several repetitions of the John Brown motif, six pen-portraits of both Northern and Southern generals in the great Civil war, whose story the book follows from causes to results; and then, as a climax, this young French poet's matchless portrayal of Abraham Lincoln. Remarkable indeed that a man both of the Old World and the New Day can command such sympathetic insight into the mind and heart of this great American, and express that understanding with such beauty and clarity. It is a literary achievement that transcends everything of the kind that has yet been attempted. Strickland Gillilan's "and none, dry-eyed, can read ten lines about him" (Lincoln) is indisputable, and certainly there are few who can read the ten pages Benet has made the heart of this great book without realizing that even the arrogance of "de-bunking" modernism dries up and blows away when it touches a man," to quote Benet himself.

Mrs. Campbell's guests were recalled to the living room by the singing of "Lead, Glorious Flag," by Miss Thorp, with Mrs. Knudson at the piano. In this room were displayed several pictures and papers of deep historical interest, notably the commissions issued to James L. Camp, and later, his wife, as postmasters of Dixon, Ill., bearing the signatures of Presidents Lincoln, Johnson, Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Arthur and Cleveland in succession—a collection of which Mrs. Irma Hartley may well be proud.

In this room, too, Mrs. J. M. Hayes distributed to each chapter member a Valentine offering in the shape of pretty crocheted tea table holders which she herself had made. Much was accomplished by Mrs. Bronson and the chapter members at the business meeting. A card of thanks for the "Good-will Gift" to the school children of Mexico was presented and its Spanish wording speculated upon rather than read. Plans were made to provide suitable gifts from the chapter to the new high school, the nature of which will be announced later. Provision was made, also, for assuming a proper share in the gift, from the Minnesota Daughters of the Revolution, of a bell for the Washington Memorial Carillon at Valley Forge, which, when completed, will voice through its 49 bells, every hour of every day, a nation's gratitude to the great general and his ragged army.

Birthday Surprise Party

Mrs. Joe Girard was pleasantly surprised Saturday evening, her birthday anniversary, when about 60 friends gathered at her home. Cards were enjoyed during the evening with Mrs. William Gildart receiving the head prize for ladies and Mrs. P. E. Anderson the consolation. For the Mrs. P. E. Anderson received the head prize and Joe Girard the consolation. Dancing also furnished a part of the evening's entertainment for a good portion of the gathering. Music was furnished by Joe Capistrant and Mrs. Ruby Smith.

At midnight a delicious luncheon was served, after which the guests departed having spent a most enjoyable time. Mrs. Girard was the recipient of a number of beautiful gifts from her friends.

MRS. R. T. CAMPBELL ENTERTAINS D. A. R.

Luncheon Table Decorated in Beautiful and Novel Manner

When Mrs. R. T. Campbell's guests sought their places at the beautifully appointed table where she served the D. A. R. luncheon yesterday, they found military titles had been given them on the flag-decorated place cards and plates of salad in the form of little army tents, surmounted by tiny flags, together with cleverly-chosen menu details emphasized the national holiday idea. The fine portrait which Mr. Lincoln himself once gave to his friend, James L. Campbell, had been loaned by Mr. Campbell's daughter, Mrs. Irma Hartley, to occupy a place of honor on the buffet, opposite the regent Mrs. Martha Ann Bronson at the head of the table.

Mrs. J. G. Heald was slated to review Steven Vincent Benet's "John Brown's Body" at this luncheon. She chose, for the brief time allotted for reviewing so large a volume, extracts from the beautiful "Invocation to the American Muse," several repetitions of the John Brown motif, six pen-portraits of both Northern and Southern generals in the great Civil war, whose story the book follows from causes to results; and then, as a climax, this young French poet's matchless portrayal of Abraham Lincoln. Remarkable indeed that a man both of the Old World and the New Day can command such sympathetic insight into the mind and heart of this great American, and express that understanding with such beauty and clarity. It is a literary achievement that transcends everything of the kind that has yet been attempted. Strickland Gillilan's "and none, dry-eyed, can read ten lines about him" (Lincoln) is indisputable, and certainly there are few who can read the ten pages Benet has made the heart of this great book without realizing that even the arrogance of "de-bunking" modernism dries up and blows away when it touches a man," to quote Benet himself.

Mrs. Campbell's guests were recalled to the living room by the singing of "Lead, Glorious Flag," by Miss Thorp, with Mrs. Knudson at the piano. In this room were displayed several pictures and papers of deep historical interest, notably the commissions issued to James L. Campbell and, later, his wife, as postmasters of Dixon, Ill., bearing the signatures of Presidents Lincoln, Johnson, Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Arthur and Cleveland in succession—a collection of which Mrs. Irma Hartley may well be proud.

In this room, too, Mrs. J. M. Hayes distributed to each chapter member a Valentine offering in the shape of pretty crocheted tea table holders which she herself had made. Much was accomplished by Mrs. Bronson and the chapter members at the business meeting. A card of thanks for the "Good-will Gift" to the school children of Mexico was presented and its Spanish wording speculated upon rather than read. Plans were made to provide suitable gifts from the chapter to the new high school, the nature of which will be announced later. Provision was made, also, for assuming a proper share in the gift, from the Minnesota Daughters of the Revolution, of a bell for the Washington Memorial Carillon at Valley Forge, which, when completed, will voice through its 49 bells, every hour of every day, a nation's gratitude to the great general and his ragged army.

Birthday Surprise Party

Mrs. Joe Girard was pleasantly surprised Saturday evening, her birthday anniversary, when about 60 friends gathered at her home. Cards were enjoyed during the evening with Mrs. William Gildart receiving the head prize for ladies and Mrs. P. B. Anderson the consolation. For the most P. B. Anderson received the head prize and Joe Girard the consolation. Dancing also furnished a part of the evening's entertainment for a good portion of the gathering. Music was furnished by Joe Capistrant and Mrs. Ruby Smith.

At midnight a delicious luncheon was served, after which the guests departed having spent a most enjoyable time. Mrs. Girard was the recipient of a number of beautiful gifts from her friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Britton will make their home at Woodrow.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
BRAINERD, MINNESOTA

Affiliated with First Bank Stock Corporation.
Combined resources over $427,000,000.

A CLEAR CASE

1. There Is a Surplus of 40 Million Lbs. Butter.
2. The Price of Butterfat Is Down 20 Cents.
3. Butter Substitutes Are a Major Reason.
4. City and Country People, by Buying These Substitutes, Work Against the Dairy Interest and the Prosperity of the Northwest.

CAUSES:

Butterfat prices are low. Every dairy farmer knows only too well and it hits his pocketbook pretty hard these days. The market is about 20 cents per pound lower than last year at this time.

What are the causes? And can the situation be remedied?

The causes are many. The stock market crash is a factor. Persons who have been hit are cutting down expenses wherever possible and in some cases they are eating less butter or buying substitutes.

There is much unemployment in the nation at this time. The non-working laboring man's family gets along without butter or at least eats less or else turns to butter substitutes.

Financial conditions almost everywhere in the nation are not what they have been. Millions of homes have less money than a year ago. Butter at last year's prices, has been passed up for a cheaper substitute.

The production and consumption of oleomargarine and butter substitutes is on the increase. This is due to the conditions stated above but also because the manufacturers of butter substitutes advertise their goods and educate the people to use the product.

But a cause, strangest of all, is the fact that the dairy farmers of the nation in 1929 consumed approximately 52,000,000 pounds of oleomargarine. Other farmers used about 158,000,000 pounds. This rural community consumption represented 60 per cent of the total production and approximately 350,000,000 pounds of oleomargarine in 1929.

When a farmer spends the money he has received at the creamery, for oleomargarine, nine times out of ten, he does so because he thinks he can not afford to buy butter, or he does not think. It is short-sightedness verg-ing on stupidity, but, nevertheless, the thought is ingrained in many farmers who otherwise display considerable intelligence. In the back of their minds is the thought that the city man can better afford to pay the prices which butter commands, and so he hollers if that city man causes consumption to back up on production, either by refusing to eat butter fast enough to absorb a surplus or to keep the market up by paying a high price for it.

It is a tough situation for the dairy farmer who doesn't use oleomargarine, but it is his neighbor who does who is responsible to no small degree for the present condition of the market. Unfortunately the dairy farmer who buys oleomargarine does not fully appreciate the falsity of his position. He does not realize that he is but one of many of his kind who are doing the same thing, and probably feels that the oleomargarine which he purchases represents an amount too small to have any effect whatever on the total.

The sad part of it is that those who are reluctant to forsake buying oleomargarine are always the ones who rail the loudest against low butterfat prices.

These conditions are at least to a very large extent the causes of the present low price of butterfat.

They had caused a surplus of 40,000,000 pounds of butter on the market early in December and had lowered the price of butterfat 10 cents per pound. Now in February the price paid to the farmer has dropped still further and is now fluctuating around the 37 cents mark, just about 17 cents under the market of a year ago.

It has resulted in a situation which seriously threatens the great dairy industry of the nation and Minnesota in general and Crow Wing County in particular. It calls for action and immediate action.

We as Brainerd Business Men, Pledge Ourselves to Personally Use Butter In Preference to Butter Substitutes and Ask Our Employees to Do Likewise.

We also ask the co-operation of the citizens of Brainerd and farmers of the community in helping to eliminate the use of butter substitutes because they are seriously affecting the dairy industry and threatening the prosperity of the state in general and Crow Wing County in particular.

Public Service in the Electrical Field

THE Electrical Workers Union No. 3, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, New York City, has published a pamphlet entitled "Public Service that Protects Property and Lives in the Electrical Field." It is compiled from investigations conducted by the Engineering and Research Department of the union.

In writing the introduction, H. H. Broach explains why such high standards are set. Mr. Broach, formerly a vice president of the International association, has since been elected president. He says:

"Standards are set up for the benefit of the public. They protect. They save money. They contribute to neat appearance. They conserve life and property.

"Standards in the electrical field today are not the whim of workmen or employers. They did not arrive by chance or accident. They were achieved only after slow, painful and costly experience, the loss of many millions of dollars in property, and many human lives.

"Standards may be said to represent civilized practices as opposed to crude, barbaric methods. Engineers, architects, electrical craftsmen, employers—all have cooperated to formulate them.

"The union insists on the highest standards of workmanship. It compels the members—both helpers and journeymen—to attend night school until they learn what they need to know and what they are paid to know.

"Each mechanic is held responsible for the kind of work he performs. Members are penalized for doing careless or faulty work. They are also required to correct defective work on their own time."

The Broaches have a beautiful summer home near Pequot.

Advertising Lumber

A PLEA for more romance in the lumber business was voiced at the convention of the Iowa Lumber and Material Dealers' association in Des Moines, Iowa, recently as mentioned in the Duluth Herald. It was made by E. C. Eby, a Chicago executive, and his thought could be extended to the advertising of many other lines of merchandise.

"You say," he said, "that because you've been in a town twenty years everyone knows you and you don't need to advertise the romance of your calling," he declared.

"Why don't you see—the very fact you've been there so long makes you seem dull to the inhabitants. The lumberman furnishes shelter for homes. He has a chance to be as looked up to as the doctor or lawyer. You are letting that opportunity slip by—and meanwhile outside competitors are stealing your business."

The speaker advised the dealer to emphasize in his advertising the enthralling side of the business. Lumber isn't just lumber—it is the heart fiber of breathing trees that but yesterday sheltered furry things in northern woods. The ghosts of the forest should still hover in the dusky corners of lumber sheds.

He should tell the public of the lumberjacks whose great axes bit into the tree trunks, sending them crashing to earth. He should describe logging down snowy mountain sides and the rough log's journey up an endless chain to the whining teeth of the sawmill. The spray of fragrant sawdust from the dressed log should fall through his newspaper advertising.

Equality, Russian Style

IN Russia, folk are hereafter not only going to be created equal, after the American ideal, but they are going to live and die equal as well, if the government has its way, says the St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Dresses will be cut from the same pattern; shoes will be built on the same last; houses will be erected on the same plans; even the furnishings of the homes will be the same.

And yet, fortunately, all this standardization will more than likely fall far short of the monotonous ideal of the Soviet government. The individuality of the people will find an outlet despite the uniformity of their costumes and abodes. Folk can no more be made to dress alike, live alike and look alike than they can be made to think alike, and the standardized costumes will be worn upside down, inside out and backside to, if the suppressed originality of the people is forced to this extremity to find expression.

Russia might conceivably be able to convert the world to Communism. But all the dictatorial power of its government will be unable to crush from the individual that inborn desire to "be different."

The Old Valentines

THE old Valentines, the cheap cent a piece kind that caricatured persons unmercifully, are gone and may they never return. They completely reversed the idea of the day, for the recipient instead of receiving something he would be proud of, got a caricature which depicted some failing of his. The only way to even the score was to buy a Valentine of the same kind and send one to somebody else.

In these days we find St. Valentine's Day a most appropriate one for sending gifts of candy, flowers, jewelry and other tokens and really beautiful cards expressing real sentiments of love, devotion or friendship. The donor is pleased and so is the person who makes the offering.

Gone are the old days with their heart burnings and the bad feeling aroused by a lot of caricatures of personal ailments or defections. That is one thing of the good old days which can continue to remain buried in oblivion.

A COURSE in commercial night school work will be offered in Little Falls. The course will be conducted two nights a week and will be under the direction of H. W. Larssen, high school instructor.

It's all right to make your dollars grow into more dollars, but you are likely to get it in the neck if you raise a one to be a ten.—Des Moines Register.

A TRUCK load of dressed chicken, the first to be shipped from Fairmont, recently went to Chicago as an experiment in shipping costs and rapidity of delivery.

"MASTER of MONEY"
BY ROY VICKERS

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

ALAN BRENNAWAY, 35, and handsome, has made a fortune in Mexico. He loves Shirley Dane, young society girl, and, upon his return to New York, proposes to her. She refuses, saying she loves someone else. At a reception, Alan meets Mr. Cynaz, financial shark, whom he distrusts. Later he receives a mysterious card that Roger Kelton, young lawyer, with whom Shirley's inheritance is invested, is bankrupt.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VII.
"THERE will be no action for libel. It isn't a libel. God help me, it's true—thanks to my father."

Alan had risen from his chair. He was staring down at Kelton. Kelton was sitting now with his face buried in his hands. If it was a theatrical pose it was unconsciously so; but Alan found time to wish Kelton's unconsciousness did not express itself with quite so much abandon.

"You're raving, Kelton. If you have—I hate to use the word—if you have been guilty of embezzlement what can your father have to do with it?"

"I haven't embezzled a penny," Kelton's voice was thick. "Believe that or not as you like, Brennaway—you will soon know. There is no question of a criminal charge being laid against me, personally. All the same, the firm is now about to go bankrupt."

"I don't follow," said Alan impatiently.

Kelton removed his hands and stared at the floor.

"I didn't know for certain until about a week ago, but I began to suspect about three months after my father's death. As it is—I shall leave the bankruptcy court without a stain on my character—except the stain that will result from being the bankrupt son of a crook."

"Do you mean to tell me—" "It's asking you a lot to believe it, isn't it?" It took me a long time to swallow it—nearly a year, but—the securities have gone." Such reserve as was left was slipping away now. "Even now when I think of him I find myself thinking of his kindness. God, how he deceived me!"

"The figures show that for twenty years he had been swindling our clients. I've been educated on stolen money. The clothes I'm wearing are stolen—the very food I've been eating."

For several seconds Alan could say nothing. The postcard had not prepared him for this. He had thought of it as an act of malice on the part of a mentally feeble man with a grievance. The conception of Kelton and Rood fraudulently bankrupt still seemed ridiculous. And what could he say to young Kelton?

"It's no good dwelling on the personal side of it," he said presently. "If he was a good father—while he was alive—"

"If he was!" The distraught young face was ravaged with bitterness. "Look at my inheritance! Oh, I am no moralist—don't think that, Brennaway. But even the ordinary crook has some kind of feeling for his son. Oh, I don't know why I'm telling you all this, but somehow one feels—" "Wait a minute, let's think," said Alan. "As you say you can show that you are not personally involved—"

"I'm not involved criminally, but I'm pretty thoroughly done for in every other way. If he'd been a good father he would have kept me out of the business—put me into some other firm. As it was, I was brought up to believe that my father was a crook."

"Do you mean you're engaged?" asked Alan. "That's tragic."

Kelton's gesture implied that it would be futile to explain. The next moment, however, he explained.

"She's an orphan. She's the chief creditor of the firm—the one we've robbed most. Now, perhaps, you are beginning to realize what my father has done to me."

Alan paced the room.

"Can't anything be done?" Kelton shook his head.

"I had a sort of idea that with a little time we might be able to adjust things a bit—clutching at straws, you know. But Randon has made that impossible and I am almost grateful to him. My father had thirty thousand of his. Also, it's doubtful whether any adjustment would be possible."

"My father would have settled Randon by giving him the cash value of his securities before he left the office—but I could only do that by doing just what my father would have done—namely, realizing someone else's securities

"How much are you in for altogether?"

"Well... My father died suddenly, you know. I had asked her the day before. We could hardly announce it then. We agreed to wait for a bit—not necessarily the usual year. And now she—well, of course, she's waiting for me to ask her for a formal announcement—she's really in a false position."

"She'll stick to you if she's worth anything, Kelton."

"It isn't only a question of sticking to me. She would do that if I would allow her."

"I quite see that you will feel bound to release her."

"Of course. But that's not my chief worry about her—I tell you, I have not even thought much about losing her."

"What then?"

to pay for it. And that I'm damned if I'll do."

Alan grunted. Kelton got up. He was obviously scrambling back to his first manner—the manner that Alan could not quite like.

"Somehow you have made me talk when I ought to have shut up. It's an impertinence on my part—I apologize. Thanks for listening, Brennaway, but you had better leave me. I shall file my petition in bankruptcy at once."

Alan stared out of the window. "How much are you in for altogether?"

"Now that you ask me—I really don't know. I stopped counting at about $250,000—the thing had become fantastic. Here's the list, if you care to add it up."

Public Service in the Electrical Field

THE Electrical Workers Union No. 3, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, New York City, has published a pamphlet entitled "Public Service that Protects Property and Lives in the Electrical Field." It is compiled from investigations conducted by the Engineering and Research Department of the union.

In writing the introduction, H. H. Broach explains why such high standards are set. Mr. Broach, formerly a vice president of the International association, has since been elected president. He says:

"Standards are set up for the benefit of the public. They protect. They save money. They contribute to neat appearance. They conserve life and property.

"Standards in the electrical field today are not the whim of workmen or employers. They did not arrive by chance or accident. They were achieved only after slow, painful and costly experience, the loss of many millions of dollars in property, and many human lives.

"Standards may be said to represent civilized practices as opposed to crude, barbaric methods. Engineers, architects, electrical craftsmen, employers—all have cooperated to formulate them.

"The union insists on the highest standards of workmanship. It compels the members—both helpers and journeymen—to attend night school until they learn what they need to know and what they are paid to know.

"Each mechanic is held responsible for the kind of work he performs. Members are penalized for doing careless or faulty work. They are also required to correct defective work on their own time."

The Broaches have a beautiful summer home near Pequot.

Advertising Lumber

A PLEA for more romance in the lumber business was voiced at the convention of the Iowa Lumber and Material Dealers' association in Des Moines, Iowa, recently as mentioned in the Duluth Herald. It was made by E. C. Eby, a Chicago executive, and his thought could be extended to the advertising of many other lines of merchandise.

"You say," he said, "that because you've been in a town twenty years everyone knows you and you don't need to advertise the romance of your calling," he declared.

"Why don't you see—the very fact you've been there so long makes you seem dull to the inhabitants. The lumberman furnishes shelter for homes. He has a chance to be as looked up to as the doctor or lawyer. You are letting that opportunity slip by—and meanwhile outside competitors are stealing your business."

The speaker advised the dealer to emphasize in his advertising the enthralling side of the business. Lumber isn't just lumber—it is the heart fiber of breathing trees that but yesterday sheltered furry things in northern woods. The ghosts of the forest should still hover in the dusky corners of lumber sheds.

He should tell the public of the lumberjacks whose great axes bit into the tree trunks, sending them crashing to earth. He should describe logging down snowy mountain sides and the rough log's journey up an endless chain to the whining teeth of the sawmill. The spray of fragrant sawdust from the dressed log should fall through his newspaper advertising.

Equality, Russian Style

IN Russia, folk are hereafter not only going to be created equal, after the American ideal, but they are going to live and die equal as well, if the government has its way, says the St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Dresses will be cut from the same pattern; shoes will be built on the same last; houses will be erected on the same plans; even the furnishings of the homes will be the same.

And yet, fortunately, all this standardization will more than likely fall far short of the monotonous ideal of the Soviet government. The individuality of the people will find an outlet despite the uniformity of their costumes and abodes. Folk can no more be made to dress alike, live alike and look alike than they can be made to think alike, and the standardized costumes will be worn upside down, inside out and backside to, if the suppressed originality of the people is forced to this extremity to find expression.

Russia might conceivably be able to convert the world to Communism. But all the dictatorial power of its government will be unable to crush from the individual that inborn desire to "be different."

The Old Valentines

THE old Valentines, the cheap cent a piece kind that caricatured persons unmercifully, are gone and may they never return. They completely reversed the idea of the day, for the recipient instead of receiving something he would be proud of, got a caricature which depicted some failing of his. The only way to even the score was to buy a Valentine of the same kind and send one to somebody else.

In these days we find St. Valentine's Day a most appropriate one for sending gifts of candy, flowers, jewelry and other tokens and really beautiful cards expressing real sentiments of love, devotion or friendship. The donor is pleased and so is the person who makes the offering.

Gone are the old days with their heart burnings and the bad feeling aroused by a lot of caricatures of personal ailments or defections. That is one thing of the good old days which can continue to remain buried in oblivion.

A COURSE in commercial night school work will be offered in Little Falls. The course will be conducted two nights a week and will be under the direction of H. W. Larsen, high school instructor.

It's all right to make your dollars grow into more dollars, but you are likely to get it in the neck if you raise a one to be a ten.—Des Moines Register.

"MASTER of MONEY"

BY ROY VICKERS

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

ALAN BRENNAWAY, 35, and handsome, has made a fortune in Mexico. He loves Shirley Dane, young, society girl, and, upon his return to New York, proposes to her. She refuses, saying she loves someone else. At a reception, Alan meets Mr. Cynaz, financial shark, whom he distrusts. Later he receives a mysterious card that Roger Kelton, young lawyer, with whom Shirley's inheritance is invested, is bankrupt.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VII.
THERE will be no action for libel. It isn't a libel. God help me, it's true—thanks to my father."

Alan had risen from his chair. He was staring down at Kelton. Kelton was sitting now with his face buried in his hands. If it was a theatrical pose it was unconsciously so; but Alan found time to wish Kelton's unconsciousness did not express itself with quite so much abandon.

"You're raving, Kelton. If you have—I hate to use the word—if you have been guilty of embezzlement what can your father have to do with it?"

"I haven't embezzled a penny," Kelton's voice was thick. "Believe that or not as you like, Brenna-way—you will soon know. There is no question of a criminal charge being laid against me, personally. All the same, the firm is now about to go bankrupt."

"I don't follow," said Alan impatiently.

Kelton removed his hands and stared at the floor.

"I didn't know for certain until about a week ago, but I began to suspect about three months after my father's death. As it is—I shall leave the bankruptcy court without a stain on my character—except the stain that will result from being the bankrupt son of a crook."

"Do you mean to tell me—" "It's asking you a lot to believe it, isn't it?" It took me a long time to swallow it—nearly a year, but—the securities have gone." Such reserve as was left was slipping away now. "Even now when I think of him I find myself thinking of his kindness. God, how he deceived me!"

"The figures show that for twenty years he had been swindling our clients. I've been educated on stolen money. The clothes I'm wearing are stolen—the very food I've been eating."

For several seconds Alan could say nothing. The postcard had not prepared him for this. He had thought of it as an act of malice on the part of a mentally feeble man with a grievance. The conception of Kelton and Rood fraudulently bankrupt still seemed ridiculous. And what could he say to young Kelton?

"It's no good dwelling on the personal side of it," he said presently. "If he was a good father—while he was alive—"

"If he was?" The distraught young face was ravaged with bitterness. "Look at my inheritance! Oh, I am no moralist—don't think that. Brenna-way. But even the ordinary crook has some kind of feeling for his son. Oh, I don't know why I'm telling you all this, but somehow one feels—" "Wait a minute, let's think," said Alan. "As you say you can show that you are not personally involved—"

"I'm not involved criminally, but I'm pretty thoroughly done for in every other way. If he'd been a good father he would have kept me out of the business—put me into some other firm. As it was, I was brought up to believe that the place was what everybody else believed it to be—I had no doubts."

"Do you mean you're engaged?" asked Alan. "That's tragic."

"How much are you in for altogether?"

"Well... My father died suddenly, you know. I had asked her the day before. We could hardly announce it then. We agreed to wait for a bit—not necessarily the usual year. And now she—well, of course, she's waiting for me to ask her for a formal announcement—she's really in a false position."

"She'll stick to you if she's worth anything, Kelton."

"It isn't only a question of sticking to me. She would do that if I would allow her."

"I quite see that you will feel bound to release her."

"Of course. But that's not my chief worry about her—I tell you, I have not even thought much about losing her."

"What then?"

Kelton's gesture implied that it would be futile to explain. The next moment, however, he explained.

"She's an orphan. She's the chief creditor of the firm—the one we've robbed most. Now, perhaps, you are beginning to realize what my father has done to me."

"My father would have settled Randon by giving him the cash value of his securities before he left the office—but I could only do that by doing just what my father would have done—namely, realizing someone else's securities to pay for it. And that I'm damned if I'll do."

Alan grunted. Kelton got up. He was obviously scrambling back to his first manner—the manner that Alan could not quite like.

"Somehow you have made me talk when I ought to have shut up. It's an impertinence on my part—I apologize. Thanks for listening, Brenna-way, but you had better leave me. I shall file my petition in bankruptcy at once."

Alan stared out of the window. "How much are you in for altogether?"

"Now that you ask me—I really don't know. I stopped counting at about $250,000—the thing had become fantastic. Here's the list, if you care to add it up."

HERB CRISLER, TED WIEMAN ACCEPT APPOINTMENTS BRAINERD AND BEMIDJI RECORD NEARLY EQUAL

CRISLER TO BE HEAD FOOTBALL COACH AT U. OF M.

WIEMAN TO BE LINE COACH AT THE UNIVER- SITY

LATTER TO TAKE UP HIS NEW DUTIES AT MINNESOTA NEXT FALL

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 14. — (U.P.) — President Lotus D. Coffman of the University of Minnesota today announced Herbert O. (Fritz) Crisler had accepted appointment as head football coach at the university.

Coffman also said that Elton E. (Ted) Wieman would be assistant football coach.

The president issued the following statement:

"Both Herbert O. Crisler and Elton E. Wieman have today accepted their appointment as head football coach and assistant football coach respectively of the University of Minnesota. Crisler is expected to come to Minneapolis some time next week.

"With the acceptance of Crisler and Wieman and the presence on the staff of Arthur Bergman, Minnesota has as dependable and capable a coaching staff in football as is to be found anywhere.

"I am confident of this. "No comment on the outcome of the coaching situation would be complete without a statement of my sincere appreciation for the efforts of the press, public, alumni and university staff who sent expressions of good will and support to Crisler and Wieman.

"The coming of these men will help the university materially in carrying forward its constructive program for the development of physical education and athletics."

Crisler succeeds Dr. Clarence W. Spears who resigned a month ago to accept appointment as head football coach at the University of Oregon.

At the time of the announcement of the appointment of Crisler and Wieman, alumni voiced their opposition to the action. The day after the appointment, the two alumni representatives of the senate committee which made the selection of the new coach, resigned. In their resignations they said they had been disregarded in choosing the coach.

All fraternities and sororities on the campus, however, and others wired expressions of good will and congratulations to the newly appointed men.

Crisler's salary was not announced but it was reported unofficially that it would be in the neighborhood of $7,500 with a $500 increase yearly over a five-year period.

Crisler was assistant coach to A. A. Stagg of the University of Chicago. Wieman has been assistant at the University of Michigan.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 14. — Ted Wieman, director of physical education at the University of Michigan, today announced he had accepted appointment as line coach at the University of Minnesota.

He will remain here for the remainder of the university year and will take up his new duties at Minnesota next fall.

Wieman's decision to accept the Minnesota job terminated the uncertainty which followed announcement he and Fritz Crisler of Chicago University had been named as assistant and head coach respectively to succeed Dr. C. W. Spears who resigned to accept a coaching position at Oregon University.

Students and alumni voiced protests over the coaching selections and two alumni members of the committee which selected Crisler and Wieman resigned. Because of this both Crisler and Wieman took the proffered berths under consideration.

BILLY LIGHT IN DECISION OVER MORRIE SHERMAN

Detroit, Feb. 14. — (U.P.) — Billy Light, St. Paul welterweight, today held a decision over Morrie Sherman, Detroit, whom he easily beat in 10 rounds last night. Light had the fight in the bag until the tenth round when Sherman came out of his shell to chase the St. Paul brawler about the ring. The closing rally, however, was insufficient to overcome the big lead which Light had piled up in the other rounds.

PENNANT RACE!

BIG league baseball magnates through their corps of scouts are still searching avidly for Babe Ruth's successor, but that is like trying to discover another Napoleon, another Shakespeare, another Aristotle from any conceivable angle of human effort. Some fair imitations slug their ways for a season or two in a manner somewhat resembling the Babe's, but few prospects even approach that class. As seasons skip on and remorseless time slowly slackens even the utterly phenomenal Ruth, the search for his successor waxes with ever increasing warmth.

This Spring the Chicago White Sox will display what that club's because of reports that the big Arkansas "ran too long in one place," he was not so hot running bases. Later reports indicated, however, that Jolley had remedied that fault, and Frisco experts assure all that "Jolley was a better player out here than Harry Holman," who went so big with Detroit after graduation from the Coast.

Whether or not this Arkansas traveler proves "another Ruth," Jolley certainly is the most publicized of all this Winter's big league recruits. Which may prove a handicap, of course, for it is hard, indeed, to come up to such advance billings from the start.

"Another Ruth?" You can hear the bleachers "bronz" that very idea already!

BILLY LIGHT IN DECISION OVER MORRIE SHERMAN

Detroit, Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—Billy Light, St. Paul welterweight, today held a decision over Morrie Sherman, Detroit, whom he easily beat in 10 rounds last night. Light had the fight in the bag until the tenth round when Sherman came out of his shell to chase the St. Paul brawler about the ring. The closing rally, however, was insufficient to overcome the big lead which Light had piled up in the other rounds.

Far-Off Yet Near

Referring to the Andromeda nebula, a galaxy of stars so distant that 1,000,000 years are required for its light to come to us: "The astonishing fact," says Dr. Forest Ray Moulton, distinguished astronomer, "is not that these exterior galaxies are so far away, but that they are so near that their distances can be approximately measured."

Lightest of Metals

Lithium is said to be the lightest of metals, having a specific gravity of 0.53. There are eight metals between this and aluminum, which has a specific gravity of 2.6. Therefore, aluminum may be said to rank tenth.

The Babe's Successor???

By HARDIN BURNLEY

HE'S NOT SO FAST... BUT HE CAN HIT!

THE SPORT BUG

Smead JOLLEY
CHICAGO'S $50,000 PIPPIN!

TERRIFIC HITTING
COAST LEAGUE STAR WHO MAY PUT THE WHITE SOX IN THE 1930 'PENNANT RACE'!

BIG league baseball magnates through their corps of scouts are still searching avidly for Babe Ruth's successor, but that is like trying to discover another Napoleon, another Shakespeare, another Aristotle from any conceivable angle of human effort. Some fair imitations slug their ways for a season or two in a manner somewhat resembling the Babe's, but few prospects even approach that class. As seasons skip on and remorseless time slowly slackens the search for his successor waxes with ever increasing warmth.

This Spring the Chicago White Sox will display what that club's followers hope will be another Ruth in the burly person of Smead Jolley, arch-hitter of the Pacific Coast League during the past two seasons. San Francisco's Seals sold him to the White Sox for a reputed price of $50,000.

Like the immortal Babe, Jolley is an outfielder of Ruthian build. He made a coast hitting record with .404 in 1935. And, like the Babe, Jolley has a great throwing arm—his right. He's in his early twenties—oh, that Ruth were that again!

Last season Jolley hit thirty-five homers against all styles of pitching. Two years ago John McGraw of the Giants passed him up because of reports that the big Arkansas "fan" was too long in one place; he was not so hot running bases. Later reports indicate, however, that Jolley had remedied that fault, and Frisco experts assure all that "Jolley was a better player out here than Harry Heilmann," who went so big with Detroit after graduation from the Coast.

Whether or not this Arkansas traveler proves "another Ruth," Jolley certainly is the most publicized of all this Winter's big league recruits. Which may prove a handicap, of course, for it is hard, indeed, to come up to such advance billings from the start.

"Another Ruth?" You can hear the bleachers "bronz" that very idea already!

Fight Like Bloomin' Yanks!

"Biff-Bang" BERG

-JOLT 'EM JACKIE, ALONG WITH HIS STABLEMATE, DYNAMIC DOM VOLANTE, MAY REVOLUTIONIZE BRITISH RING TACTICS--IT'S A FAR CRY FROM THE OLD JEM MACE STYLE TO THE PLUNGING, TEARING ATTACK OF CANZONERI'S CONQUEROR!

Jem Mace - THE OLD IDEAL.

Dom VOLANTE

JEM MACE was a great boxer, so was Charley Mitchell, and a score of other British fighters, but none of John Bull's modern battlers even approached world championship class without adapting to a considerable degree the so-called American (slam-bang) style of fighting.

Jackie (Kid) Berg, London's illustrious "Whitechapel Express," is in striking distance of the lightweight crown because his ring tactics are those of a bloomin' Yank. Berg tears in and bears down from bell to bell like a miniature Harry Gieb. He swarms over opposing leads in which hard counter-blows might be dealt. Whirlwind, hammer-and-tongs assaults were all but unknown to Jem Mace and his ilk.

The way he over-whelmed Tony Canzoneri at the New York Garden recently bodes ill for Mushy Callahan, junior welter champ, when he clashes with "Biff Bang" Berg in London.

Berg, of course, is what Gene Tunney might call the antithesis of the old English boxing school of which Jem Mace was the ideal exponent. Those classic antiques of fistiana stood straight up; their tactics and strategy of the "manly art of self-defense" revolving almost solely on counter-fighting. Berg, leading cautiously and feinting the other man into incautious leads in which hard counter-blows might be dealt. Whirlwind, hammer-and-tongs assaults were all but unknown to Jem Mace and his ilk.

Americans, even before John L. Sullivan's time, were the first to employ the aggressive, slashing form of combination attack and defense. Some great English stars took to that style also, notably Freddie Welsh, Owen Moran, Jem Driscoll and Jimmy Wilde, though the latter also savored much of the Jem Mace school. John Bull's heavies seldom have abandoned their old style and you know how they rate.

With Berg blazing ahead in Yankee fashion, his pal, Dominick Volante... another Johnny Bull... is doing likewise and may go far in a year or two. British pluck may yet lick Yankee luck some day if those beef-eaters learn to fight like bloomin' Yanks.

BRAVE CLERK DARES DEATH BY BULLETS

STEPS ON ALARM BUTTON AS BANDITS ENTER DETROIT
WESTERN UNION

GUN BATTLE FOLLOWS, AND 2
SPECIAL GUARDS AND BANDIT KILLED

Detroit, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Death by bandit bullets stared Ash Blues in the face but he stepped on an alarm button in the Western Union Telegraph Company office last night, precipitating a succession of gun battles that left two special guards and a bandit dead and a policeman critically wounded.

"Greetings, everybody, we're back again," called the lanky leader of a trio of gunmen who strode into the office at 9:30 P. M. The nine employees present knew the bandits who had staged a holdup there on Feb. 4 were back.

There was a sharp command to "line up against the wall and whoever sounds an alarm sounds his death signal." As the nine employees and one customer hastened to comply, Blues set his foot on a button that sounded a gong in the offices of the American Still Alarm Company in the same building. Arthur Heron, a guard, ran down and opened fire on the bandits. Instantly the room was roaring with guns. Two other alarm company guards, Jess Catlin, 36, and John Scott, 46, joined Heron. An instant later the two newcomers fell mortally wounded.

One unidentified bandit was killed in the next charge.

The other two gunmen fled to where another was waiting in an automobile and they sped away.

Patrolman Joseph Raals, 26, walking his beat, ran into the street, shooting at the car. He fell with two bullets in his groin. His condition was pronounced serious today.

After the shooting had ceased in the Western Union office, employees discovered one of the bandits had snatched $1,600 from a cash drawer.

"THE LOVE PARADE" IS SEASON'S BEST

Preshowing to be Made at Midnight
Show at Paramount
Saturday

Maurice Chevalier, Jeanette MacDonald, Lupino Lane and Lillian Rotn will be seen in their best acting in the excellent production, "The Love Parade" which shows at the Paramount theatre at a midnight show starting at 11:15 p. m. Saturday.

The regular showing will be Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

"Tomorrow evening's preshowing will be a test show to determine whether the people of Brainerd want midnight shows. Their patronage will decide one way or the other," Geo. D. Irwin, manager of the theatre said today. "Brainerd is indeed fortunate in seeing this type of entertainment in a high class theatre at more reasonable prices than other parts in the country."

There will be no advance in prices for the midnight show. "The Love Parade" is at present having an extended run on Broadway, New York City at $2 seats. The picture recently played for three weeks at the Century theatre, Minneapolis at advance prices.

In "The Love Parade," Chevalier sings several engaging songs, featuring "My Love Parade," "Anything To Please The Queen," "Nobody's Using It Now" and "Paris Stay the Same." And to make matters complete he spends considerable time flatteringly, flirting and finally falling in love with his beautiful leading lady, Jeanette MacDonald, who is ideally cast as the young, beautiful and unmarried Queen of Sylvania. And the Queen, rightly enough, finds it an impossible task to resist the dashing Chevalier whose amorous adventures are the gossip of the kingdom. In a delightful, sophisticated manner, interspersed with gorgeous comedy and set against a background of great beauty, this romance of Chevalier and his Queen is a rare bit of entertainment as yet unequaled on the talking screen.

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

February 14, 1905

Secretary J. W. Flickwir and the delegates W. J. Smith, C. Bruhn, H. Lathrop, Alden Fuller, Ember Olson, Frank Rose, H. Butts, Ira Cornelius, D. T. Lawrence, John Towers and Archie Hagadone and the following from the junior department: Will Brown, Thos. McMeekin, Stanley Smith and Dale Lathrop have returned from the Y. M. C. A. convention at Duluth. Mrs. W. J. Smith and son Lloyd were visitors at the convention.

J. J. Howe, Jr., yesterday afternoon received a telephone message from Ed. Hazen of Duluth regarding the meeting of the Northern League magistrates who are to congregate at Fargo to outline plans for the coming season. As is well known, the Northern League is anxious to get Brainerd into the deal this year and Mr. Hazen's object was in trying to get some representative from Brainerd to attend the meeting.

The directors of the Brainerd Commercial club met last night for the first time and the officers of the club for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Mayor C. O'Brien; Vice President, Henry I. Cohen; Treasurer, F. A. Farrar and Secretary, W. D. McKay. The matter of securing a permanent home for the club was referred to the house and entertainment committee.

The Ladies Musical club held their annual election Saturday afternoon with the following officers chosen for the coming year: President, Mrs. C. M. Patek; Vice President, Mrs. Follett; Secretary, Mrs. R. F. Walters; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Irma Hartley; Treasurer, Mrs. Henry I. Cohen.

Miss Jessie Tyler left for the coast on Sunday evening for a visit of a month or two.

Miss Irma Simmons returned to Fairbault this afternoon to continue her studies at the deaf and dumb school.

February 14, 1905

D. M. Clark and J. F. McGinnis returned yesterday from St. Cloud where a new lodge, Knights of Columbus, was organized. The event brought many visitors from out of the city to the Granite city, a special containing 200 men coming up from the Twin Cities.

Senator Frater has introduced a bill appropriating $500 for a bridge across Pine River in Crow Wing county.

Dr. and Mrs. S. W. Mowers returned from Staples this afternoon where they visited for a day or two.

The farmers of Stoney Brook country have started a movement looking to the launching on Gull Lake early in the spring of a large ferry boat which will be used to haul them and their teams across the lake, saving a long trip around when they want to come to Brainerd. J. M. Hayes, well known in this city is at the head of the movement and L. W. Sherlund has been preparing a sketch of the boat to be sent away to designers so that the cost etc., can be figured out. When not in use hauling farmers across the lake, the boat will be utilized for pleasure seekers and in this manner the projectors expect to reap considerable profit on the side. It is estimated the boat will cost from $2,500 to $3,000.

J. W. Mangen of Grand Forks, N. D., is in the city visiting with old friends for a few days. He was formerly manager for the Edwards-Wood company in this city.

A. L. Hoffman left Saturday night for Webbwood, Ontario called there by business in connection with the Shakespeare gold mine of which company he is the secretary.

Ernest S. Boudreau of Little Falls has been appointed boiler inspector for the forty eighth district by Gov. Johnson.

TRIED ALL KINDS OF LAXATIVES

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Gave Only Permanent Relief

As everybody knows, the market is flooded with cathartics, pills and patent compounds for the relief of constipation. At best, whatever results are obtained are temporary. Besides, there is the danger in certain drugs and the habit-forming menace.

Mr. P. M. Fisher, 517 Olive Street, Scranton, Pa., has something to say on this subject which will be interesting to all constipation sufferers. He says:

"For many years I suffered from constipation and used, for relief, all kinds of laxatives. After a few days' treatment, I would only find my condition the same as before and at times worse."

"Some time ago I started to use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly, once a day as directed. Since doing this, I have found that I do not need any other medicine to procure the desired result, and it keeps me in a very healthful condition."

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is positively guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation or the purchase price will be refunded.

In addition, it adds needed iron to the diet. You will like its delicious flavor. There are many delightful ways to eat it. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

The secret of Good Bread

by MARGARET BAKER
Home Economics
Lecturer

Have you ever wondered what happens when bread is being baked... where flavor and keeping quality come from?

ALL bread-making flours contain a property called "gluten." The better the flour, the better are both quality and quantity of gluten.

Gluten is an elastic, protein-containing substance. The more high quality gluten a flour contains the more moisture it will absorb.

Through the action of yeast, gas forms in dough. This gas makes the dough "rise." If the quality of the gluten is firm, elastic and properly responsive, it expands with the gas, forming countless tiny "bubbles" ... the cellular structure of a light and appetizing loaf.

If the quality of the gluten is soft, sticky and "dead," the expanding gas bursts the gluten cells ... the bread is heavy, full of large holes and unappetizing in flavor. When gluten is high the tiny starch and gluten cells retain moisture and keep your bread fresh longer.

And—from the standpoint of food value—high quality gluten means high quality protein.

Protein is the highest priced body-building element. (Meat and eggs owe their high food value to protein.) The use of Occident—the high protein flour—means greater food value in your bread.

Order a sack of Occident Flour today. If you are not convinced that it is better than any flour you have ever used, the full purchase price will be refunded.

STEPS ON ALARM BUTTON AS BANDITS ENTER DETROIT WESTERN UNION

GUN BATTLE FOLLOWS, AND 2 SPECIAL GUARDS AND BANDIT KILLED

Detroit, Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—Death by bullet bullets started Ash Blues in the face but he stepped on an alarm button in the Western Union Telegraph Company office last night, precipitating a succession of gun battles that left two special guards and a bandit dead and a policeman critically wounded.

"Greetings, everybody, we're back again," called the lanky leader of a trio of gunmen who strode into the office at 9:30 P. M. The nine employees present knew the bandits who had staged a holdup there on Feb. 4 were back.

There was a sharp command to "line up against the wall and whoever sounds an alarm sounds his death signal." As the nine employees and one customer hastened to comply, Blues set his foot on a button that sounded a gong in the offices of the American Still Alarm Company in the same building. Arthur Heron, a guard, ran down and opened fire on the bandits. Instantly the room was roaring with guns. Two other alarm company guards, Jess Catlin, 36, and John Scott, 46, joined Heron. An instant later the two newcomers fell mortally wounded.

One unidentified bandit was killed in the next charge.

The other two gunmen fled to where another was waiting in an automobile and they sped away.

Trooperman Joseph Reals, 26, walking his beat, ran into the street, shooting at the car. He fell with two bullets in his groin. His condition was pronounced serious today.

After the shooting had ceased in the Western Union office, employees discovered one of the bandits had snatched $1,600 from a cash drawer.

"THE LOVE PARADE" IS SEASON'S BEST

Preshowing to be Made at Midnight Show at Paramount Saturday

Maurice Chevalier, Jeanette MacDonald, Lupino Lane and Lillian Rotin will be seen in their best acting in the excellent production, "The Love Parade" which shows at the Paramount theatre at a midnight show starting at 11:15 p. m. Saturday.

The regular showing will be Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

"Tomorrow evening's preshowing will be a test show to determine whether the people of Brainerd want midnight shows. Their patronage will decide one way or the other," Geo. D. Irwin, manager of the theatre said today. "Brainerd is indeed fortunate in seeing this type of entertainment in a high class theatre at more reasonable prices than other parts in the country."

There will be no advance in prices for the midnight show. "The Love Parade" is at present having an extended run on Broadway, New York City at $2 seats. The picture recently played for three weeks at the Century theatre, Minneapolis at advance prices.

In "The Love Parade," Chevalier sings several engaging songs, featuring "My Love Parade," "Anything To Please The Queen," "Nobody's Using It Now" and "Paris Stay the Same." And to make matters complete he spends considerable time flattering, flirting and finally falling in love with his beautiful leading lady, Jeanette MacDonald, who is ideally cast as the young, beautiful and unmarried Queen of Sylvania. And the Queen, rightly enough, finds it an impossible task to resist the dashing Chevalier whose amorous adventures are the gossip of the kingdom. In a delightful, sophisticated manner, interspersed with gorgeous comedy and set against a background of great beauty, this romance of Chevalier and his Queen is a rare bit of entertainment as yet unequalled on the talking screen.

Lawrence, John Towers and Archie Hagadone and the following from the junior department: Will Brown, Thos. McMeekin, Stanley Smith and Dale Lathrop have returned from the Y. M. C. J. J. Howe, Jr., yesterday afternoon received a telephone message from Ed. Hazen of Duluth regarding the meeting of the Northern League mag-nates who are to congregate at Fargo to outline plans for the coming season. As is well known, the Northern League is anxious to get Brainerd into the deal this year and Mr. Hazen's object was in trying to get some representative from Brainerd to attend the meeting.

The directors of the Brainerd Commercial club met last night for the first time and the officers of the club for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Mayor Con O'Brien; Vice President, Henry I. Cohen; Treasurer, F. A. Farrar and Secretary, W. D. McKay. The matter of securing a permanent home for the club was referred to the house and entertainment committee.

The Ladies Musical club held their annual election Saturday afternoon with the following officers chosen for the coming year: President, Mrs. C. M. Patek; Vice President, Mrs. Follett; Secretary, Mrs. R. F. Walters; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Irma Hartley; Treasurer, Mrs. Henry I. Cohen.

Senator Frater has introduced a bill appropriating $500 for a bridge across Pine River in Crow Wing county.

Dr. and Mrs. S. W. Mowers returned from Staples this afternoon where they visited for a day or two.

The farmers of Stoney Brook country have started a movement looking to the launching on Gull Lake early in the spring of a large ferry boat which will be used to haul them and their teams across the lake, saving a long trip around when they want to come to Brainerd. J. M. Hayes, well known in this city is at the head of the movement and L. W. Sherlund has been preparing a sketch of the boat to be sent away to designers so that the cost etc., can be figured out. When not in use hauling farmers across the lake, the boat will be utilized for pleasure seekers and in this manner the projectors expect to reap considerable profit on the side. It is estimated the boat will cost from $2,500 to $3,000.

J. W. Mangen of Grand Forks, N. D., is in the city visiting with old friends for a few days. He was formerly manager for the Edwards-Wood company in this city.

A. L. Hoffman left Saturday night for Webbwood, Ontario called there by business in connection with the Shakespeare gold mine of which company he is the secretary.

TRIED ALL KINDS OF LAXATIVES

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Gave Only Permanent Relief

As everybody knows, the market is flooded with cathartics, pills and patent compounds for the relief of constipation. At best, whatever results are obtained are temporary. Besides, there is the danger in certain drugs and the habit-forming menace.

Mr. P. M. Fisher, 517 Olive Street, Scranton, Pa., has something to say on this subject which will be interesting to all constipation sufferers. He says:

"For many years I suffered from constipation and used, for relief, all kinds of laxatives. After a few days' treatment, I would only find my condition the same as before and at times worse."

"Some time ago I started to use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly, once a day as directed. Since doing this, I have found that I do not need any other medicine to procure the desired result, and it keeps me in a very healthful condition."

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is positively guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation or the purchase price will be refunded.

In addition, it adds needed iron to the diet. You will like its delicious flavor. There are many delightful ways to eat it. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

The secret of Good Bread

Have you ever wondered what happens when bread is being baked... where flavor and keeping quality come from?

ALL bread-making flours contain a property called "gluten." The better the flour, the better are both quality and quantity of gluten.

Gluten is an elastic, protein-containing substance. The more high quality gluten a flour contains the more moisture it will absorb.

Through the action of yeast, gas forms in dough. This gas makes the dough "rise." If the quality of the gluten is firm, elastic and properly responsive, it expands with the gas, forming countless tiny "bubbles" ... the cellular structure of a light and appetizing loaf.

If the quality of the gluten is soft, sticky and "dead," the expanding gas bursts the gluten cells ... the bread is heavy, full of large holes and unappetizing in flavor. When gluten is high the tiny starch and gluten cells retain moisture and keep your bread fresh longer.

And—from the standpoint of food value—high quality gluten means high quality protein.

Louis Hohman, Sr., a resident of this city since 1888 passed away at midnight at his home 810 South Sixth street from complications incident to old age.

He was a railroad man entering the service of the Northern Pacific Railway Express Co. when first coming to this city, his first position being driver. From driver he became night agent, then to express and baggage agent on the road.

"Louie" as he was known by his fellow associates ran for many years between this city and Morris, between Staples and Bismarck closing his work eight years ago with the run from Brainerd to Ironton.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been fully completed but will probably be held Monday afternoon from the home.

Louis Hohman was born in Germany, February 2, 1849 passing the 81st milestone of his life on the second day of this month. He came to this country with his parents at the age of three or four years. Their first home was in Baltimore, Maryland. From there the family moved to Louisville, Ohio and from there they moved to Indianapolis, Ind. They came to Minnesota in the year of 1865 and settled on farm land in Winona county in a valley near what is now the small village of Minnesota City. This valley later became known as the Deering valley. In the year of 1877, November 25 he married Dora Deering. Two children were born to this union, Louis F. Hohman, now secretary of the Brainerd Board of Education and a daughter, Cora, who died in infancy.

In the year 1888 they came to Brainerd where they have since made their home. Mr. Hohman entered the service of the N. P. Express Co. the same year and worked continuously for this company in various positions until pensioned eight years ago.

Besides his wife he leaves a son, Louis, and family, four grandchildren, John, Richard, William and Donald, all of this city, also two sisters, Mrs. Mary Reith of Minnesota City, Minn., Mrs. Minnie Tabor of Seattle Washington and a brother, Gust, also of Seattle.

"Reasons" For Leaving Home
At least three of the "reasons" for leaving home, as seen and heard in "Why Leave Home?" the Fox Movietone musical comedy showing at the Paramount Saturday only, would make any man abandon his domicile in favor of the bright lights.

Sue Carol, Dixie Lee and Jean Barry, the three chorus girls who entice the tired business men from their apartments for a hilarious revel, form a trio of pulchritude which has no rival on the speaking screen, and which supplies many of the giggling moments of this tuneful production.

All men should take this examination if interested in securing work with this department, as those selected are ones successful in passing this examination, which covers in a general way the planting, cruising and logging of timber; firefighting and prevention of fire; reconnaissance, surveying and general knowledge of forest laws.

LOUIS HOHMAN SR. DIES AT AGE OF 81

Came to City in 1888; Entered Service of N. P. Express Co. Then; Pensioned Eight Years Ago

LEAVES WIDOW, SON

Worked on Runs Between Brainerd and Morris, Staples and Bismarck and Brainerd and Ironton

Louis Hohman, Sr., a resident of this city since 1888 passed away at midnight at his home 810 South Sixth street from complications incident to old age.

He was a railroad man entering the service of the Northern Pacific Railway Express Co. when first coming to this city, his first position being driver. From driver he became night agent, then to express and baggage agent on the road.

"Louie" as he was known by his fellow associates ran for many years between this city and Morris, between Staples and Bismarck closing his work eight years ago with the run from Brainerd to Ironton.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been fully completed but will probably be held Monday afternoon from the home.

Louis Hohman was born in Germany, February 2, 1849 passing the 81st milestone of his life on the second day of this month. He came to this country with his parents at the age of three or four years. Their first home was in Baltimore, Maryland. From there the family moved to Louisville, Ohio and from there they moved to Indianapolis, Ind. They came to Minnesota in the year of 1868 and settled on farm land in Winona county in a valley near what is now the small village of Minnesota City. This valley later became known as the Deering valley. In the year of 1877, November 25 he married Dora Deering. Two children were born to this union, Louis F. Hohman, now secretary of the Brainerd Board of Education and a daughter, Cora, who died in infancy.

In the year 1888 they came to Brainerd where they have since made their home. Mr. Hohman entered the service of the N. P. Express Co. the same year and worked continuously for this company in various positions until pensioned eight years ago.

Besides his wife he leaves a son, Louis, and family, four grandchildren, John, Richard, William and Donald, all of this city, also three daughters, Mary Ruth, of Minnesota City, Minn., Mrs. Minnie Tabor of Seattle, Washington and a brother, Gust, also, of Seattle.

"Reasons" For Leaving Home
At least three of the "reasons" for leaving home, as seen and heard in "Why Leave Home?" the Fox Movie-tone musical comedy showing at the Paramount Saturday only, would make any man abandon his domicile in favor of the bright lights.

Sue Carol, Dixie Lee and Jean Barry, the three chorus girls who entice the tired business men from their apartments for a hilarious revel, form a trio of pulchritude which has no rival on the speaking screen, and which supplies many of the giggly moments of this tuneful production.

AUXILIARY STATE PRISON IS SOUGHT

MRS. BLANCHE LADU, CHAIRMAN STATE BOARD OF CONTROL, MAKES STATEMENT

St. Paul, Feb. 14.—(UP)—Mrs. Blanche Ladu, chairman of the state board of control, today announced the next session of the state legislature may be asked to provide funds for an auxiliary state prison.

She said the new prison would be used to imprison only first offenders, thus separating the various classes of criminals.

Mrs. Ladu said present plans are indefinite but that conferences will be held by her department with members of the state board of parole and heads of present penal institutions until details are worked out.

According to Mrs. Ladu, a program for the new prison may be included in the report of the board of control for this year. It would then be submitted to the state commission of administration and finance and finally to the state legislature.

She pointed out that the new prison would make it possible to segregate first offenders from hardened criminals during prison terms, which the board has long sought.

AUXILIARY STATE PRISON IS SOUGHT

MRS. BLANCHE LADU, CHAIRMAN STATE BOARD OF CONTROL, MAKES STATEMENT

St. Paul, Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Blanche Ladu, chairman of the state board of control, today announced the next session of the state legislature may be asked to provide funds for an auxiliary state prison.

She said the new prison would be used to imprison only first offenders, thus separating the various classes of criminals.

Mrs. Ladu said present plans are indefinite but that conferences will be held by her department with members of the state board of parole and heads of present penal institutions until details are worked out.

According to Mrs. Ladu, a program for the new prison may be included in the report of the board of control for this year. It would then be submitted to the state commission of administration and finance and finally to the state legislature.

She pointed out that the new prison would make it possible to segregate first offenders from hardened criminals during prison terms, which the board has long sought.
